JUDGMENT

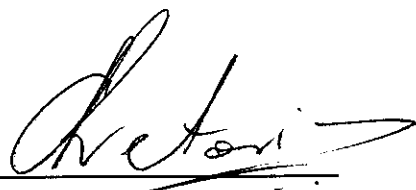

PRETORIUS J.

[1] The court has considered the leave to appeal against refusal of petition.

[2] This court has considered the magistrate's comprehensive judgment on the facts and the sentence. The court finds that there is no reasonable possibility that another court will come to a different conclusion on both conviction and sentence.

[3] The court cannot find that the magistrate erred when convicting and sentencing the applicant.

[4] The applicant's leave to appeal against the refusal of the petition is dismissed against both conviction and sentence.
